AMUSEMENT NOTES

"New Eight Bells" at Barre Opera House Tuesday Evening.

The Brothers Byrne who appear at the opera house Tuesday night, November 2 in their latest edition of the "New Eight Bells" claim originality in all they perform. They are the originators of their style of entertainment and have no rivals. In the "New Eight Bells" they have presented to the public a performance entirely different from all others. A production that stands alone. The wonderful effects introduced are all entirely new and amazing creations of stage art.

Over forty people figure in the play, and the entire Byrne family are seen in the leading parts. The Byrne productions have always been the laughing hits of the season, and in the "New Eight Bells" they surpass all previous efforts. Tons of intricate scenery is used; in fact, a special car is required to transport the mechanical effects, scenery, etc. For good solid fun the "New Eight Bells" stands in the front rank.

"The Traveling Salesman."

"The Traveling Salesman," the new comedy by James Forbes, author of "The Chorus Lady," which Henry B. Harris will present at the opera house next

BOB BLAKE
In "The Traveling Salesman," at the Barre Opera House, Thursday, November 4.

Thursday, Nov. 4, must be written down as one of the real successes of the current theatrical season and the crowded houses that greet Bob Blake at each performance are so demonstrative that there can be no question of its approval. The comedy of this play is of a most delicious character, and never before in the history of the stage has there been a dramatic contribution which includes so many laughs as does "The Traveling Salesman." Austin Webb as the jovial, mirth-provoking drummer; John W. Sherman, as his able co-assistant; Rosalind Coghlan as the ingenious, simple ticket agent; Eliza Mason in the role of a modern Xanippe, but with a heart as good as gold—in fact, the entire company without exception, gives splendid interpretations of Mr. Forbes' interesting stage characters.
